CK—DEPARTMENTAL BUILDINGS—OTTAWA.

THE PARLIAMENT BUILDINGS AT OTTAWA.

These splendid Buildings in process of completion, and which will be occupied for Legislative purposes on the next meeting of Parliament, stand upon a lofty plateau of some twenty-nine acres in area—formerly known as Barrack Hill. The Buildings are widely detached, and form three sides of a quadrangular figure; the main or Parliament Building facing Wellington street and Centre Town to the southward; the Departmental Buildings facing inwards to the square, and forming the other two sides of the figure. The costliness and splendour of the buildings themselves, their fine commanding site, together with the beauty of the surrounding scenery, place them in a very enviable position—compared with all other structures used for similar purposes on this continent—and must ever make them objects of interest to the stranger and the tourist.

The style of the buildings is the Gothic, of the 12th and 13th centuries, with some modifications to suit the Canadian climate. The dressings round the windows, and the ornamental work, are of Ohio Sandstone. The plain surfaces are faced with a cream-coloured sandstone of the Potsdam formation, obtained at Napean, distant twelve miles from Ottawa. The spandrils of the arches, and the spaces which occur between window-arches and the sills of the upper windows, are filled up with a quaint description of stonework, composed of stones of irregular size, shape and colour, very neatly set together. These, with the Potsdam red sandstone employed in forming the arches over the windows, afford a pleasant variety of colour and effect, and contrasting with the general masses of light coloured sandstone, of which the body of the work is composed.

The Parliament Building, as you approach it from Wellington street, presents a very imposing appearance. The central of the seven towers, which is very rich in design, projects its width from the front of the building. Its height, when completed, will be 180 feet. The body of the building in front is about forty feet high, above which rises the slanting roofs of slate, surmounted by lines of ornamental iron cresting. The length of the building is 471½ feet, and its depth from the front of the main tower to the rear of the library is 570 feet, covering an area of 82,886 superficial feet, or about three and seven-tenths acres. It stands at a distance of about 600 feet from the street, so that the quadrangle formed on three sides by the buildings and on the fourth by Wellington street, is 700 feet from east to west, and 600 feet from north to south; thus affording a very spacious square. The ground upon which the buildings stand varies somewhat in elevation, that portion forming the site of the Parliament Building being the highest. The basement floor of the buildings is assumed to be 159 feet above the ordinary summer level of the river, while that of the eastern and western blocks is 185 and 142 feet respectively. The increased elevation, however, improves the general effect, and when the proposed carriage way to the Parliament Building is finished, and the intermediate space formed into terraces, each kept somewhat lower than the ground lines of the different buildings, the effect will be very fine.

The main entrance is through the principal tower, the spacious arches of which admit of carriage way under them. The piers which support the tower are ornamented with pillars of polished Arnprior marble. Passing through it we enter a large hall, paved with tiles, and also surrounded with marble pillars. Ascending and moving towards the left, we come to the Chamber of the Legislative Assembly. The room measures eighty by forty-five feet, the ceiling being upwards of sixty feet high, and formed of fine open work; the sky-lights being above this intermediate ceiling. The windows at the sides are of stained glass. The room is surrounded by large piers of a light greyish marble from Portage du Fort, surmounted just above the galleries by clusters of small pillars of the dark Arnprior marble; the arches supported by these pillars being again of the light coloured marble. The galleries are calculated to accommodate 1,000 persons. The Reporters' gallery extends in rear of and over the Speaker's Chair.

At the other side of the building, to the left of the main entrance, is the Legislative Council Chamber, a fac simile of that of the Legislative Assembly. Along the passages are innumerable committee and clerks' rooms, reading and smoking rooms, and a very fine appartment for a saloon or dining-hall.

The library plan, which is situated to the rear of the buildings, is on a polygon of sixteen sides, and is 90 feet in diameter. Outside of the main room is an aisle of one story high, in which are formed a series of small retiring rooms, where persons desiring an hour or two of uninterrupted study can secure it. A corridor connects the library with the main building; this will be used as a picture gallery.

From this side of the building, the north front, we look upon some very extensive and beautiful scenery, and over a long reach of the Ottawa river, which flows round the foot of the cliff, 162 feet below.

The Eastern block of the Departmental Buildings is a very irregular and picturesque pile. It is 245 feet on the west front or that which faces the square, and 319 feet on the south front or that which faces Wellington street, and covers an area of 41,840 superficial feet. In this building are situated the Governor General's office, the Executive Council room, the President of the Council, the Attorneys and Solicitors General East and West, the Minister of Finance and Audit office, the Bureau of Agriculture, Patents and Statistics, the Provincial Secretary and Provincial Registrar. In this building also, is a large model room connected with the Patent Department. From the Eastern front of these buildings, extensive views are also obtained, embracing the lower part of the city and the country stretching beyond. Nearer is a plateau, somewhat similar to that upon which the buildings stand, and known as the Major's Hill, and in a deep hollow between and immediately under the walls, is the long chain of locks of the Rideau canal, spanned a little higher up by the Sapper's bridge, which connects the lower with the upper portions of the city.

The Western block of the Departmental Buildings is similar in style to that just described, but more regular in its construction and not quite so large being 220 feet long on the East front or that which looks over the square, and 277 feet on the South front or that which faces Wellington street. It is somewhat less imposing as to its main entrance, a circumstance which is probably accounted for by the fact of the Governor General's room and the Executive Council Chamber being in the Eastern block. In it are located the Crown Lands Department, the Board of Works, the Post Office Department, and the Adjutant General's Office and Militia Department. The West front of these buildings looks upon the Upper Town and beyond it towards the ChaudiereFalls, and Hull, and gives a fine view of the wooded shore on that side of the river and the distant range of hills beyond, including an extensive view of the river and its banks, stretching to the southwest in the direction of Aylmer. Similar or still more extensive views are obtained from the west front or end of the Parliament Building.

The ceilings of the passages and of many of the rooms of the Parliament Building are constructed of pine wood, varnished, which being wrought into ornamental cornices and panels produce a rich and very fine effect. The doors of the rooms are of the same material. The fittings around the grates and the mantle-pieces are of polished Arnprior marble; it is a greyish blue marble of very fine grain, and capable of being polished to a high surface. All the floors are supported by rolled iron girders, and filled in between with cement, rendering them fireproof. The stairs in the building are all built of blue Ohio stone, and constructed with hanging steps.

The system for heating and ventilation appears to be very perfect. Immediately under the great central court of the Parliament Building is the boiler room, in which are six Cornish boilers, each twenty feet long and five feet in diameter, furnished with a steam drum, safety-valve, &c., and a steam engine of sufficient horse-power to work the pumps and throw 250 gallons of water per minute into tanks placed in the towers, from whence water is supplied to all parts of the buildings. The heating is effected by steam conveyed in pipes from these boilers to the Legislative Council rooms, the Library, and the room immediately adjoining, on what is called the vault system; that is, a duct of sufficient area for the introduction of an abundant supply of fresh air, is situated immediately under a vault in which steam pipes are placed to warm the air on its entering the vault from the duct, through a perforated floor, and before it passes into the rooms proposed to be heated. These ducts enter at all sides of the building, and range in size according to the position in which they are placed. Of the ducts, there are 3,600 lineal feet, generally 2 feet 4 inches high, with sides built of dressed stone and formed with a slight descent where they pass out of the buiding. The other parts of the building are heated on what is called the coil system, or by direct radiation. For the rooms heated by this system there are 4,308 feet of hot air flues, 24 by 19 inches sectional area, formed in the wall adjoining the committee rooms and other parts of the building thus heated, exclusive of ninety feet of others of greater dimensions for the larger steam pipes.

The Architects of the Parliament Buildings are Messrs. Fuller & Jones; and of the Departmental Buildings, Messrs. Stent & Laver. The Contractor for the stonework of the Parliament Building is Mr. Thomas McGreevy, and those for the Departmental Buildings, Messrs. Jones, Haycock & Co. The system for heating and ventilating has been successfully carried out by Mr. Charles Garth.

It would be impossible to give a perfect idea of these splendid buildings within the limits of a mere pen and ink sketch; we trust, however, that the sketch here given, which we believe is correct, as far as it goes, taken in connection with the accompanying woodcuts, will prove interesting to the purchasers of the Pocket Almanac.

The views of the Departmental Buildings are engravings by Mr. J. Walker, of this city, from photographs by Notman, as well as the view shewing the west end of the Parliament Building, and a portion of the heights upon which the buildings stand, as seen from the Hull side of the river.

No communication, whether written or printed, must be enclosed in them; and they must be so put up as to be easy of examination, for the purpose of verifying the alleged contents. If put up in bags, the bags must be simply tied at the neck, so as to admit of inspection; and, in the case of such packages mailed in Canada, the nature of the contents, such as "Seeds," "Roots," &c., as the case may be, must be marked on the package by the sender, as a statement of the claim to pass at the reduced rate hereby made applicable to such matter.

B—The patterns, &c., must be sent in covers, open at the ends, so as to be easy of examination. Samples, however, of seeds, drugs, and such like, which cannot be sent in open covers, may be enclosed in bags of linen or other material simply tied at the neck; but bags closed against inspection, although transparent, must not be used for the purpose.

C—There must be no writing or printing other than the address of the person for whom the packet is intended, the manufacturer's or trade mark and number, and price of the article.

D—Any infringement of the above regulations will render the packet liable to be treated and charged as a letter.

E—The rule which forbids the transmission through the Post of any article likely to injure the contents of the mail-bags, will apply to patterns and samples; and any package transgressing this rule is to be sent to the Postmaster General.

THE MERCANTILE AGENCY,

Established in New York nearly 25 Years ago,

On JUNE 1st, 1841,

(FOR THE PROMOTION & PROTECTION OF TRADE,)

Union Buildings,

28 ST. FRANCOIS XAVIER STREET,

MONTREAL, C. E.

And Exchange Building, Toronto.

Our object and that of our EIGHTEEN Branch and Associate Offices, in the large Cities of the United States of America, Canada, and in London, England, is to give information to Subscribers, of the standing of those who purchase Goods on time or otherwise require CREDIT.

We are supported by fully Three-Fourths of the Merchants, Bankers, and Manufacturers, of every community where our advantages are known.

"This Institution, established in the City of New York over sixteen years ago for the promotion and protection of trade, was the first organized effort ever made to relieve the Merchants and Manufacturers of the Union from the insecurity of credit operations, and to substitute for the tardy, expensive, and unsatisfactory results of individual investigation, a system that should be alike prompt, economical, and reliable—whose purpose it should be to supply (to subscribers only) all necessary information as to the standing and responsibility of Merchants, Traders, Manufacturers, Public Companies, &c., throughout the United States, their Territories, and British North America."—Our Circular of 1857.

Collections of past due Debts particularly attended to for all, whether Subscribers to the Agency or otherwise.

Terms of Subscription will be made known at the Office, where we shall be much pleased to afford information as to the system pursued, and to give (free of expense) to those who contemplate joining the Institution a reasonable test of the correctness of our reports.
